

R. Scott Edwards

Commercial Insurance Broker

Scott Edwards joined InterWest Insurance Services in March, 2010 as a commercial broker. His primary objective in working with his clients is to become an integral member of their business team by assisting with the management of their insurance program by bringing creative and comprehensive solutions.

Having been an entrepreneur throughout his career, Scott understands the fragile balancing act faced by business owners. Utilizing the considerable resources of InterWest and through clear consistent communication, he works closely with his clients to help them understand their exposures and mitigate the problems and costs associated with loss and risk.

Immediately out of high school in 1973, Scott started his first company and then another in 1976, both of which are still robust and running successfully. In 1980, Laughs Unlimited, his most successful venture was formed and was the 12th comedy club in the country. Under the Laughs Unlimited, Inc. umbrella, he operated three comedy clubs, two restaurants and two art galleries.

For the next 3 years, Scott and his wife, Jill, operated Edwards Travel Service, assisting many people in navigating the difficult world of travel after 9/11. Scott's entrepreneurial spirit lead him to author two books, produce thirty-two television shows and numerous large concerts, featuring names like Jay Leno, Dana Carvey, and Jerry Seinfeld. He has also co-owned a submarine, a Hawaiian beach shack, a talent agency and a wine label.

Today, Scott continues his self development by offering his experience and guidance to clients in hopes of helping them avoid some of the risk and unexpected expenses of running a business.

Scott has deep roots in the community. He graduated from Christian Brothers High School and is currently a proud Rotarian. He sits on the board for SNUBA International and is involved with many charitable groups. Scott and Jill have two grown children, two grandchildren, four godchildren, numerous nieces and nephews, and many other beautiful children in their lives. They are what make it all worthwhile.
